

Most people think success with AI comes from knowing more tools.

It doesn't.

It comes from using AI consistently.

There's one simple habit that takes less than 15 minutes a day.

No complicated systems.

No technical skills.

No expensive software.

Yet the people using it consistently are moving ahead much faster than everyone else.

The surprising part?

Most people have never heard of it.

Comment HABIT and I'll send you the complete implementation guide via DM.
