

Most people think AI gives random answers.

It doesn't.

The quality of the answer usually depends on the quality of the prompt.

One small change in how you ask can completely change what AI gives back.

That's the exact formula we've been using to get clearer ideas, better writing, stronger research, and more useful responses—without wasting time rewriting prompts again and again.

We're not sharing it publicly because it works best as a complete framework.
